THAI GLOSSARY

A little lesson in Thai to help understand the name. There's no universally-accepted phonetic translation to English so if a dish is spelled with a "k" (e.g. "kai") at one place and a "g" ("gai") at another they're both correct. Whatever spelling we use here, however, is MORE correct.

A few helpful words:

- Alloy: Delicious
- Zaap: Delicious AND spicy
- Nid Noi : A little
- Mak: A lot
- Mak Mak: A whole lot!
- Gai: Chicken
- Moo: Pork
- Goong : Shrimp
- Pad: Stir Fried (Krapow: Basil, so Pad Krapow=Stir-fried Basil)
- Tee Rak: My Love (Rhymes with "We Rock." Total coincidence.)
